Intrigue

Second broadcast, Tuesday, of "Junior Jury" heard Indian Head's juvenile and adult commentators livening to the task and doing a little free-wheeling as they caught their studio legs. Following broadcasts are coming up each Tuesday. This last Tuesday's performers were the same heard on the initial broadcast.

Those questions flung at the juniors (later dropped on the seniors) are hard-shelled items that strike frequently in the average home.

Enthusiastic about the series is Fred Laight, production manager of CKRM, which handles the broadcasts. An audience check revealed that 40% heard the initial broadcast, which he considered "amazing" in competition with a major network program.

New performers stepped to the mike here Sunday as two more complete programs were recorded, Juniors Eileen Jackson, Gordon Deal, Loretta Bettschen, Clifford Anderson and Russell Buglass. No question, however controversial, fazed these youngsters, and they had some surprising solutions to some real "facers". Adults who juggled with the answers also were Mrs. Elleray, Gas Eichel and Phil Flude. Those recordings will be heard on Tuesday, Jan. 29 and Tuesday, Feb. 5, both at 7.30 over CKRM.
