

HOW'S THE OLD REACTION?

Some immediate reaction to the announcement that Indian Head has been selected as the locale for a research project under the Canadian Mental Health association was, we suspect, a little too typical for comfort. One man-on-the-street (fairly representative) asked: "What's the matter—do they think we're nuts?" This is not of course the idea, however attractive the prospect of finding out just how nutty we are. The study that is contemplated is serious, a research project that hopes to deal with all manner of men so that all manner of men may benefit.
